RANSOM MONEY HUNTED IN KIDNAPING CASE

CLYDE R. REICH IS CANDIDATE IN MAYOR RACE

Former Service Director Here Takes Out Petition

TWO G. O. P. COUNCIL MEMBERS TO RUN

Mayor Phillips and Sam Krauss May Be Democratic Candidates

Municipal politics came to the front with some of its old time activity at the opening of the final week before the closing date for filing petitions for city offices.

Public announcements have been made, but several prospective candidates have been putting out feelers within a few days it is likely that both Republicans and Democrats will have slates complete in most instances.

Reich Takes Out Petition

Clyde R. Reich, former service director, took out his petition Saturday for Republican nominee as mayor.

Harry W. Kesselmire and George Harrell, who ran two years ago, are expected to be in the race again and it is reported that former Mayor John M. Davidson also may turn out to the fight for Republican nomination.

Of the three Republican members of council, C. F. Zimmerman, first ward, and Joseph Calladine, fourth ward, will be in the field for re-election. The other Republican, A. P. Morris, will not be a candidate for his second term. It is believed, however, that the Republicans will have candidates for all four ward councilmen and three councilmen-at-large.

City Auditor K. L. Webster has filed his petition for another term and it is understood the Democrats will not put up an opponent. City Senator Lester Caplan also will seek his second term and no opponent is expected from the Democratic ranks.

Phillips May Reconsider

Although Mayor Norman Phillips has stated that he did not intend to seek a second term, it is understood that he is reconsidering and may file again on the Democratic ticket. Sam Krauss, third ward councilman, will oppose him at the primaries.

Democratic councilmen and Treasurer Vincent Judge will seek second terms. It is understood the Democrats will meet at 7:30 tonight at the Memorial building to complete their slate and to effect a reorganization of their local club.

Two Given Hearings On Traffic Charges

Emery Burson of Salem, arrested by Patrolmen Nerr Gaunt and Harold Shepard over the weekend on a charge of driving while intoxicated, was bound over to the county grand jury when he pleaded guilty today.

Burson was taken to the county jail at Lisbon when he failed to post $500 bond.

Carl Manning, arrested by Patrolman Ed Piller on a charge of reckless driving, was fined $5 and costs when he pleaded guilty.

Police, meanwhile, continued their traffic checkup in the downtown section of the city, in an effort to stop overtime and double parking by motorists.

Over a dozen automobiles have been "tagged" recently for violating city traffic ordinances. Police Chief Ralph N. Stoffer said today.

"What Will 'Pay-Off Day' Bring?" Is Pastor's Question

Rev. G. D. Keister, High School Baccalaureate Speaker, Tells Students To Look To Future

Salem High school graduates, parents and friends, attending baccalaureate exercises last night in the high school auditorium, were instructed that the returns of life, in most cases, depend largely upon what the individual puts into life.

The baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Rev. George D. Keister, pastor of the Holy Trinity Episcopal church, and president of the Salem Ministerial association.

His subject was "The Pay-Off Day." Other Salem pastors aided in the exercises, including Rev. Herbert J. Thompson, Methodist Episcopal church, who served as chairman; Rev. John Bauman, Emmanuel Lutheran church, who gave the invocation; Rev. C. L. Gardner, Church of the Nazarene, the Scripture reading; and Rev. R. D. Walter, Presbyterian church, the benediction.

Music on the program. Among the musical selections during the exercises were the prelude, "Red Leaves" (Anchiff); the professional, "Victory" (Zamecnik); hymns, "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name" (Holden-Petronet) and "Now the Day Is Over" (Barnby-Gould); chorus, "The Green Cathedral" (Hahn); and "Gladness Radiance" (Gretchenhoff); and the postlude, "Spirit of the Hour" (Johnson).

Although bearing a modernly phrased title, "The Pay-Off Day," Rev. Keister's subject was based on an old and familiar writing, from II Corinthians 9-6, to the effect that "He that sows sparingly, shall also reap sparingly, and he that sows bountifully, shall also reap bountifully."

"Anticipated rewards are strong incentives for encouraging people to do their best in life," Rev. Keister pointed out. "Some have accepted deprivation and sacrifice with the hope of being rewarded."

"Education has its rewards. It has been unfortunate that too much stress has been placed upon material benefits of an education. An education should prepare one for greater usefulness in life and should produce a culture that may not be counted in physical measures."

"There are pay-off days and dividend days in life. Graduation day is such a day. There is the recognition of work done. Dreams and ideals are now realized. Reaping the order of the season."

Remember the Order. "However, if harvests of life are to keep on coming, there must be sowing. Sowing must precede reaping. This order is to be remembered. It cannot be reversed. The hard work of sowing must be endured for the hope of reaping. There may be some delay in the harvest. Yet they will eventually come. Often the sower passes, but it will be the pleasure of another to gather the harvest."

"Reaping is true to the sowing. This cannot be avoided. The sower of wild oats will surely reap the same. The sower of indifference and laziness can expect a crop of the same nature. Whatever a man sows that shall he also reap."

"There are two kinds of sowing: First, the stingy or spare sowing. 'Some people want to avoid the cost involved in sowing. They refuse to burn the midnight oil of effort'."

Second, the generous sowing. "Some people want to avoid the cost involved in sowing. They refuse to burn the midnight oil of effort."

Remember the Order. "However, if harvests of life are to keep on coming, there must be sowing. Sowing must precede reaping. This order is to be remembered. It cannot be reversed. The hard work of sowing must be endured for the hope of reaping. There may be some delay in the harvest. Yet they will eventually come. Often the sower passes, but it will be the pleasure of another to gather the harvest."

JUNE'S RELIEF BUDGET IS SET

State Allows $104,000 to County, An Increase Of $8,000

LISBON, June 3.—The state relief commission has approved a budget of $104,000 for Columbiana county for the current month. Acting Relief Director M. R. Paul was informed today. This is an increase of approximately $8,000 over the appropriation for the county for May.

From this appropriation, $69,375 is for direct relief and $34,625 for the works division.

Checks for $16,462.99 were written as of June 1 for clients on cash relief, 1,911 families and 304 non-family clients participating in this distribution. This amount is deducted from the total allowed the county for relief purposes. The total participating in the cash relief, or 2,215 clients, represents approximately 75 per cent of the relief load in this county at present.

Appropriation for works division purposes, according to Works Division Manager Arthur E. Dickson, means the starting of several recently approved projects in this county at once. Grading of Church st., Salineville, will be started this week, and in addition a number of sidewalk projects in Wellsville will get under way.

Numerous projects have been submitted to the works division offices here, but final approval has not been received from the Columbus office.

CCC Enrollment Will Start June 15

LISBON, June 3.—It was officially announced here today that enrollment for the CCC will be conducted during the period of June 15 and Aug. 31. This applies to all counties in Ohio. The county quotas will be assigned on the basis of the family case load in each case.

In the event Columbiana county is unable to complete its quota from relief cases, it will be necessary for those in authority to redistribute the balance of its quota to other counties where there are additional qualified men whose dependents are now on public relief rolls.

J. E. Johnston, Columbiana county selecting agent, said today that, under instructions he has received, applicants representing "border-line" cases are not eligible for selection in view of the new regulations, and that under no consideration will any exception to the ruling be permitted.

Coughlin Talks On Interstate Commerce

DETROIT, June 3.—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin called upon congress last night to re-define the nature of interstate commerce and thus constitutionally to forge a weapon with which to enforce upon business the principles of the new deal.

Fr. Coughlin told the members of his National Union for Social Justice in a radio address that he was more optimistic than ever before of the nation's future, despite the invalidation of the NRA by the supreme court. He predicted that a reverse for the blue eagle would yet serve to advance the new deal by welding the "broken ranks" of its adherents into a united front.

"All is not lost," the priest declared. "On the contrary, all is about to be gained. The lateral attack against rugged individualism is changing to a frontal attack against the arsenal of financial domination."

27 New Motor Units Sold During Month

LISBON, June 3.—Although the sale of new motor units in this county declined from the peak record of 317 established last April, distribution for May was still high with 277 units, of which 247 were new pleasure cars and 30 were new truck units. However, two more trucks were sold in the county in May than in April.

During May, 1934, the sale of 275 new units was reported, the division being 250 pleasure cars and 25 trucks.

Distribution of new pleasure car units in this county during May shows: Ford, 59; Chevrolet, 59; Terraplane, 7; Dodge, 22; Pontiac, 6; Plymouth, 42; Buick, 10; Studebaker, 12; Nash, 2; Packard, 3; Oldsmobile, 15; Chrysler, 4; Auburn, 1; Graham, 3; LaSalle, 2.

BUREAUCRACY IS HIT BY HOOVER IN IOWA TALK

Lashes Government Action Limiting Opportunity to Produce

ASSERTS HE STILL BELIEVES IN MERIT

Nation Not Built, he says, Under Agency That Coded Everyone

(By Associated Press) DES MOINES, June 3.—Former President Herbert Hoover returned to his native state and sounded a warning today against what he termed a possible "political bureaucracy."

Here to address 178 Drake university graduates and to receive an honorary degree, Mr. Hoover said, "you should be suspicious of any proposal that asks you to forego the rightful exercise of your muscles and might, of any governmental action which limits your opportunities to work and produce."

"Some people would like to mobilize you into a political bureaucracy to run this civilization."

Believes in Merit. "But some of us hold that the jobs should go to those who win them fairly by merit."

Mr. Hoover asked, "will government permit you to breathe the pure air of liberty in the spirit of the bill of rights? That is the thing that you have need to look out for."

For in this matter you enter life at one of the most crucial periods of American history."

"I don't agree," about youth's future. What troubles him, he said, was "that the forces of government may impose on you that will limit or destroy your inspirations, your incentives and your opportunities."

"The exponents of the new social order * * * would dim some of your hopes by telling you * * * that hope, new adventure and new opportunity have departed."

"I don't agree to that."

"Such assertions are an assumption that you will have no intelligence, no energy, no ambitions, no new ideas and no new inventions."

"It is true old age and misfortune deserve protection and that the haunting fear of poverty should be driven from among us. It may be that there are some who, fearing competition in life, wish for assurance from government of a routine job where they advance by political favor or seniority and get a pension at the end."

Suspects In Tacoma Kidnaping

Here are two men mentioned frequently as the hunt is extended for the kidnapers of 9-year-old George Weyerhaeuser, son of a wealthy Tacoma, Wash., lumber family, who returned home safely Saturday after his abductors had been paid $200,000.

At the left is Volney Davis, member of the Karpis gang who was arrested Saturday in Chicago, according to announcement today by the department of justice. He pleaded guilty in St. Paul today to a part in the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker.

At the right is Harry Campbell for whom the department of justice has spread its net in the Weyerhaeuser kidnaping.

FRENCH LINER SETS NEW MARK

Normandie Reaches New York Harbor at 9:53 A. M. Today

(By Associated Press) ABOARD S. S. NORMANDIE AT SEA, June 3.—The mammoth Normandie, having wrested at least two trans-Atlantic speed records on her maiden voyage, reached Ambrose Lightship in New York harbor today at 9:53 a. m.

The French flagship covered the distance of 2,971 miles from Bishop's Stock to Ambrose at an average speed of 29.98 knots.

The elapsed time was 99 hours, five minutes.

Breaks All Speed Records. It was announced that the Normandie had broken all speed records, covering the 3,192 miles from Southampton to Ambrose at a speed of 29.98 knots—a total time from Southampton of 107 hours, 33 minutes.

When she passed Ambrose she was a half hour ahead of schedule. The average Sunday and Monday speed was 31.55 knots, the highest ever achieved by a trans-Atlantic liner.

The crossing was the fastest in the northern lane between Europe and New York.

A second record set by the Normandie was for a single day's run. The Normandie's speed was virtually the same as that of the Rex when she set the world's record for an Atlantic crossing.

Whether it was a trifle faster or slower will not be known until differences in mileage from various starting points and over the different routes is computed.

The Rex mark—109 hours and 58 minutes—was made between Gibraltar and New York.

Former Mark 110 Hours. The shattered northern lane mark was, until today, 110 hours, 27 minutes, established by the North German Lloyd's Bremen.

With a day's run of 748 miles at an average for 23 hours until noon yesterday of 29.92 knots, the Normandie beat the previous record of 736 miles held by the Rex.

Authorities Seek Cemetery Vandals

Vandals who prey on the graves of soldiers and others are being sought by Salem and county officials following attempts to remove bronze tombstone tablets from Salem cemeteries.

In one instance the tablet had been pried loose but apparently the vandals were frightened away before they could complete their job.

Reports have come from the Pittsburgh district to the effect that 1,200 tablets and many markers are missing from cemeteries.

The markers are small bronze signs placed at the foot of the grave, denoting veterans' organization to which the dead man belonged. They are donated by the county.

It is said that grave looting has been going on for several years and recently has become more serious. Vandals presumably sell the bronze for junk.

Ask Commissioners To Boost Road Work

LISBON, June 3.—A resolution approved by P. O. Elks, Roscoe M. Rogers and Charles G. Hart, as a committee representing the Columbiana County Trustees and Clerks' association, has been filed with the county commissioners, asking them to use every effort to obtain federal funds for the improvement of dirt roads in this county, other than the 70 miles that the state highway department plans to improve this year.

The federal fund asked is a part of the allotment to Ohio from the $4,600,000,000 recently set aside at Washington for employment purposes.

NOTE NUMBERS ARE SENT OUT BY U. S. AGENTS

Hope to Pick Up Cooling Trail of Tacoma Abductors

BANKS AND OTHER CENTERS ON WATCH

Volney Davis, Member of Karpis Gang, Nabbed In Chicago

(By Associated Press) TACOMA, Wash., June 3.—Department of justice agents began distributing pamphlets listing the numbers of 20,000 currency ransom notes here today as they sought to pick up the cooling trail of the kidnapers of nine-year-old George Weyerhaeuser.

The bulletin does not mention the Weyerhaeuser case, merely describing it as "a kidnaping case."

Suspect Arrested. Agents received the pamphlets this morning after they had reported they were informed Volney Davis, aide of Alvin Karpis' snafu gang and mentioned as a suspect in the $200,000 Weyerhaeuser kidnaping, had been arrested in Chicago. The man was reported hurried from Chicago by airplane last night, but federal men said he was not being brought here.

Operatives refused to comment on published reports the kidnapers were paid the ransom money by George's uncle, P. Rodman Titcomb, Thursday.

In that report the Seattle Post-Intelligencer today said the abductors then stole Titcomb's car—the machine which was the "kidnap car" recovered here. The paper said the ransom was paid in the foothills of the Cascades, about 50 miles east of Issaquah where George was released Saturday. It said Titcomb was picked up by his associate in the Weyerhaeuser Timber company, Charles Ingram, after the kidnapers left him afoot.

Lists Numbers of Notes. William Cole, state patrol chief, commented the car recovered in Seattle was stolen "sometime ago" and the license plates stolen from a Tacoma machine, but he did not remember the owner.

The bulletin describing the ransom money lists the numbers of nine United States notes and 19,991 federal notes.

The federal reserve notes are all of the "E" series but are not in sequence. Thus it takes fifty-five booklets to list the bills, starting with "L00000034A" and "L00000037B" (asterisk) and ending with "L3564933A" and "L35979275A."

The lists were being distributed to banks and all other places where large amounts of money are handled.

A man arrested in Chicago Friday, about the day the ransom was paid, was described by officers here as Davis, who is wanted for the $200,000 Edward G. Bremer kidnaping in St. Paul.

A plane believed to be that in which Davis was held was forced down late last night at Madison, Wis., but resumed its flight again early today, supposedly in a westerly direction.

Various persons here have reported they saw Davis in this vicinity about the time George Weyerhaeuser, heir to the country's greatest timber fortune, was held.

Seek Agreement In Clay Plant Strike

LISBON, June 3.—A two-month old strike at the plant of the American Vitreous Products Co., here, affecting 85 employees, may be ended today if a satisfactory agreement is reached at the parley of clay workers at Uhrichsville, it was announced by company officials.

The meeting in Uhrichsville today was between operatives and representatives of the clay workers union and an early working agreement was anticipated.

A Forlorn Man

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 3.—Well sir, a forlorn-looking gentleman came to my house Sunday afternoon. Said he was one of Roosevelt's Cabinet, and he looked it. It was Mr. Hoper, Secretary of Commerce.

I try to make it a point to never turn anybody away. First one of the New Deal I had seen since the Supreme Court took their matches away from 'em. But he was a game Southern gentleman, no micks, no squawks. He and I searched around through the burned embers, to see if any little New Deal object might be salvaged.

We decided that Big Business operating under the old "dog eat dog" plan, so many dogs would eventually get bit that parts of the NIRA would look like a halo by 1936.

Yours,
Will Rogers

ONE OUT, ONE IN

France's apparently inexhaustible supply of politicians has offered up another hopeful premier, Fernand Bouisson. He makes his debut under decidedly unfavorable circumstances. Apparently, the republic has entered another period of uncertainty in which governments will rise and fall rapidly.

The defeat of Pierre Etienne Flandin, who sought plenary emergency powers to govern by decree until next October, marked another climax in French political unrest. Frenchmen are devout republicans, as well as devout nationalists. They want to do what is necessary for the preservation of the state, but they do not want to do what might be bad for republican principles of government.

It is Premier Bouisson's job to satisfy both desires. As president of the chamber of deputies, M. Bouisson gained a reputation for political skill, which is the primary qualification for the head of any French cabinet. Though not what France knows as a strong man, M. Bouisson may develop strength in his new position. French politicians do not merely happen; they develop by years of service in the government.

There are many similarities between the problems of France and those of the United States. In fact, there are similarities between the problems of all governments these days, in the sense that they are trying to reconcile expedient ways of accomplishing certain purposes with traditional methods. In France, as in the United States, the issue is between centralization of power and the fear that centralization will destroy democracy. Americans are specially capable of sympathizing with France. If democracy is to survive, it will have to be defended in those places where it has been given the fullest trials.

AMERICA'S RISING QUESTION

It may appear by hindsight that May 27, 1935, started the crystallization of the most momentous issue in American politics during the first half of the 20th century. The issue, emerging from the supreme court's decisions on the recovery act, the farm mortgage act and the trade commission case, is easy to describe.

It is: Shall the Constitution of the United States be permitted to block the trend toward centralization of authority in the federal government? The issue was opened by the policy of President Roosevelt's new deal administration, which calls for national unification of purpose and activity.

The question is a practical one. The Constitution represents a concept of government in which the states do the governing and the federal government supplies the force to hold the states together. The new deal represents a concept of government in which the federal government does the governing and the states supply the force to make federal policies effective.

Thus, the new deal runs squarely into the Constitution. As guardian of the Constitution, the supreme court has no choice but to interpret it as the fundamental law of the nation. The new deal is animate; the Constitution, aside from the breadth of interpretation it allows, is inanimate. Naturally, new dealers are being tempted to disregard the Constitution, therefore. They did so in preparing many of the laws which are being tested in the court. Unfavorable rulings on those laws merely convince them of the fact the Constitution is a handicap to their purposes.

The issue's roots are too deep to permit either an easy or a quick settlement. They go back, in fact, to the beginning of government on this continent. If the United States has decided the question satisfactorily by the close of the first half of the century, it will have shown unexpected capacity for the solution of its political problems.

THE STARS SAY

For Tuesday, June 4

According to the lunar aspects, this may not be an important day in business, although some financial success may be expected through speculation or by the friendly intervention of influential friends. There may be some slight disappointments or an anxiety of a purely private nature.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it may be assured some financial advancement, either through speculative enterprises or through the friendly interest of those in place and power. Personal prestige and popularity are important, although there may be a trivial setback or disappointment. A social association may prove treacherous or mystifying.

A child born on this day will be efficient, intelligent and affable, with personal popularity contributing to its success.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, June 3—In the manner of Arnold Bennett's journal: I saw her at Chatham Walk last night with a complete scumster. One of those rare, fairy girls with an elf smile—Marie Doro in "The Admirable Crichton"—who entrance, make you ashamed at staring so fixedly. But she didn't mind.

The admiration of men was her cocktail. And when she fades—get thee to a nunnery or a leap out of a 13th story window... or "James, the Face Lifter" in West 48th street, and don't spare the horses! Then there was the Bernard Shaw fellow on the sidewalk bench opposite Otto Kahn's on the upper avenue.

Elderly with a white beard, dignified, though seedy. He had an uncouth paper package, all his worldly effects. He was solving a cross word puzzle. He had plenty of time. Plenty. He had all the time there was. I'm crazy, but I want to use the words edacious, gular, witto, catoptric and xanthous.

People imagine an author, ha, ha, just names his book and that's that. Alas! He has to please the sales force. Luckless he who suggests several names, of which he really likes only one. They are pledged to select the one he hates. Title for essay: Unknown books of well known authors.

One of the hardest working authors in the business was the late and monocoed Louis Joseph Vance. He always worked at night—best time of all for creative work. He was a fine fighter and a fine friend. Really started the Authors' League. But was as lonely as his Lone Wolf and died alone horribly. He lived at one time at the for-men-only Benedict in Washington Square East. Nearly all whosewhosers in art and literature seem to have lived there. Ike Marcossan, Hendrik Van Loon, Jack London, Charlie Norris and many others. A year in Washington Square usually removes the last traces of small townishness. Or so it is believed.

The most fun at amateur theatricals is the offside humor. Such as the fellow—Arthur McVeigh. I believe—on the Dutch Treat jinks who, after a long delay of the first curtain, stood up and yawned: "Well, anyway!" And that first time James Montgomery Flagg yelled: "Louder and funnier!" Then Broadway picked it up and claimed it, as usual.

The forthright frankness in modern literature makes it difficult to believe the restrictions of a few years ago. There was the publisher who wouldn't permit Oellett Burgess to use "silk stockings" in his first novel. A bit too risqué! And it was the Ladies Home Journal, as I recall, that forbade Bert Terhune's hero to leave the heroine's house at 11 o'clock. Must be 10 o'clock!

I was musing today about the modern boy when Ray Long, Jr., called. If he forms secret societies before college or prep school frats. As a youngster I was a member of an order called the Foul Fiends of Hell. I was Arch Fiend. Will Geppert was the Bloodthirsty Destroyer. Such honors make the Congressional Medal or the Rosette of the Legion seem paltry today. And there are any boys who have printing presses, or bean blowers, the two cent kind, two feet long, with which of an evening in June one could bring a frightened girl to a second story window? And there was that greatest thrill. Making oxygen yourself in the cellar and burning magnesium in it. Or, hydrogen and filling balloons. Too, there was life's great problem: Shall I put "Mr." on my first engraved card? Eureka! I can float on my back.

The enormous Normandie, with its floating grandeur, will send several great liners of a year ago to the junk heap. I'm glad Will Hays had the good taste to make no denials of the constant stories that James Gerard, Al Smith, Joe Kennedy and Farley would take his place. He knew all the while he was secure and could have the job as long as he wanted. Denying false statements is always a waste of effort. Someone was saying Frank Crowninshield is the star of the salad mixing experts. Superstition is not confined to illiterates. It's the belief of two intellectuals that Edwin Booth's ghost hovers about The Players. But what upsets me is my upsetting of a bottle of red ink on a new study rug two days ago. So far M. has not discovered it. But when she comes around I am in the grip of that solemn hush just before the captain of the execution squad yells "Fire!" The dry throat, numb bewilderment. That last glimpse of the cold grey dawn!

Nervous Breakdown

Today we hear a good deal about "nervous breakdown." Yet statistics show that, despite the depression, the immediate health of the people has not been affected. There is little evidence to substantiate the popular belief that there is an increase in the number of nervous ailments of this type.

The expression "nervous breakdown" has come into common use. In spite of our increased knowledge of the nervous system, such as "neurasthenia," "hysteria," "psychasthenia," there are cases difficult to solve. In spite of our increased knowledge, all too many persons suffer from some form of nervous ailment.

The so-called victim of nervous breakdown feels mentally and physically tired. He is unable to do his work and suffers from vague pains and aches. There may be no apparent cause for the symptoms. As a rule, however, this can be determined by the physician. But sometimes it is difficult even for him to be sure what is the underlying trouble. In consequence, the patient continues to suffer.

The most common form of nervous breakdown is that known as "anxiety-neurosis." In this condition there is constant fear of some serious physical disturbance. There may be complaint of palpitation of the heart or weakness in the legs. Perhaps the victim cannot digest his food properly, sweats easily and has shortness of breath. But with all his misery he avoids consulting his physician for fear he may be ridiculed.

Unfounded Beliefs

For many years it was a popular but unfounded belief that nervousness is a complaint confined to the well-to-do. Another mistaken idea is that city folks are more susceptible to nervous breakdown than the small town or country dweller. This unpleasant condition occurs without regard to occupation or financial standing.

The first thing to do when there is a suspicion of a nervous breakdown is to consult a physician. A complete physical examination will determine if there is any organic trouble. Nervousness is caused usually by some functional disturbance in the body. It may be due to faulty eating or living habits.

Every effort should be made to improve the general health and to build up the resistance of the body. An adequate diet, including plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables, and foods abundant in minerals, such as phosphorus and sulphur, are especially beneficial in overcoming nervousness. These important minerals are to be found in lemons, grapefruit, spinach, rice, sea foods, eggs, almonds, walnuts, cucumbers, cauliflower, tomatoes, celery, brussels sprouts, onions, turnips, bran and whole wheat.

Fresh Air Important

In addition to a proper diet, it is important to have an abundance of fresh air and sunshine. These are important in overcoming any form of nervous disorder. The rays of the sun are healing. They help the body to relax and store up energy. Long walks are recommended and in some cases special forms of exercise are helpful. Your physician will outline the general and medical treatment you should have.

Do not permit yourself to become discouraged. It is true that complete recovery from any nervous disorder is slow work, but by proper care restoration to good health will be your reward.

WHEN LIVES ARE AT STAKE

You need the same tire protection that race drivers demand

Kelly Pettilo, On May 30, Won the 500-Mile Indianapolis Race on Firestone Tires, breaking the Track Record, and driving the entire distance at a rate of 196.340 Miles Per Hour.

This record is an astounding demonstration of tire efficiency. To go 500 miles in less than five hours on this rough and bumpy 26-year-old brick track demonstrates the strength and blowout protection that Firestone builds into their Gum-Dipped Tires.

AB JENKINS ALSO RECENTLY DEMONSTRATED the stamina, efficiency, and blowout protection built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. He drove his 5000 pound car over the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, 3000 miles in 23½ hours. This was an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, and although temperatures were as high as 120°, he had no blowouts or tire trouble of any kind.

These records are made possible by special construction features built into Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

Take no chances—protect your life and the lives of others by letting us equip your car with Firestone Tires.

Before you buy new tires ask yourself these three questions:

1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

2—"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?"

3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

Answer No. 1—University tests show Firestone Tires stop ten car 15% quicker than best tire.

Answer No. 2—Unequalled performance records prove that Gum-Dipping gives the greatest blowout protection known.

Answer No. 3—Car owners report unequalled mileage records of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone tires.

THE COLD FINGER CURSE

by EDWIN DIAL TORGERSON

CHAPTER XLIII

forward and spat at Coulney. "Play me for a sucker, would you? Hold out on me when I done the dirty work, would you?"

"Pipe down," growled Inspector McEniry, forcing him into a chair. "Snap out of it, now, and I'll give you a shot of snow in a minute—make you feel better. Is this the man who killed Mrs. Elderbank?"

"Yeah, he's the guy that done it!" screamed Latterman. "I told him not to gag the dame that way, or he'd kill her, but the fool went right on, I didn't croak her, Chief. I didn't croak her! All I did was grab the ice and make a getaway. And this mug and Cupples bilked me on the split—I says so right in this paper—I'll show you!"

Detectives had handcuffed him to the arms of the chair, but he struggled to reach his coat pocket and a midnight edition of a tabloid newspaper fell to the floor. Its headlines blared forth the latest of Glenn Thurber's revelations: FENCE STRICKEN BY COLD FINGER CURSE, CONFESSES.

"It says Jack Callen paid 'em two hundred grand," snarled Jerry Joe, "and they told me he only paid 'em eighty."

"Who did he pay it to?" demanded McEniry.

"Cupples, that's who—or Gus Heinemer, or whatever you want to call him. I left the stuff with Cupples, after he'd croaked this dick that worked for the insurance company—"

"That's your story, eh?—that Cupples shot Hovarty?"

Latterman hesitated craftily. "Sure he croaked him. I wouldn't a-done it. It was Cupples' idea. Hovarty tried to fox us with marked bills, and Cupples said it wasn't safe to let him live—he might turn us in anyhow, even if he got the ice."

"Yeah?" McEniry, his face averted, winked slowly at Montigny. He turned to Detective Mabry.

"Get Coulney out of here," ordered the Inspector. "We'll talk to these birds separately."

Coulney still maintained his air of polite bravado.

"Of course it will not interest you to know, Inspector," he suggested, "that I never saw or heard of this man before."

"Yeah—that's what they all say," "Yeah—I telephone for my attorney now."

"You may—in due time. But till take forty-nine lips to get you out of this now, son."

"You'll burn, all right — you heel!" snarled Latterman after him. The Inspector gave his attention again to Jerry Joe.

"You say Cupples was uptown with you, was he, the day you croaked Hovarty?"

"Sure he was with me," whined Latterman, "but I didn't croak him. Cupples did it."

"Cupples was uptown with you, eh?—and we had men tailing him day and night and didn't know it, eh?"

"Aw, that was easy," said Joe with a trace of contempt. "All he had to do was walk across the roofs and come down through this house that bird Merriam had a room in. He walks outa that house with his hat pulled down and a handkerchief to his nose, and nobody ever noticed him. He gets back in the same way. And that's the way I gets in tonight—over the roofs. Cupples let me in, see?"

"And you went there to croak him, eh?"

A cunning light had kindled in Latterman's eyes, and he had recovered somewhat from his extreme excitement. "It was self-defense, Chief," he croaked huskily. "When I read this thing in the paper I went to see him to make him come across with the right sort of cut on the money he got. He had a gun — your dicks found it there on the floor. I sprinkled him, good and from that source it shall be divided. Mr. Elderbank, who employed me in this case, will take care of me."

"You're crazy," beamed McEniry, "but I like you for it. There's one more little thing we've got to do tonight—the medical examiner is waiting for us at the Elderbank house with what is left of Cupples."

"The Cold Finger Curse!" said Montigny. "C'est tout. It got them all!"

There was a Saturday night party in progress on Jimmy Kirkman's floor at Two-Sixty-Eight Waverly Place, sometimes familiarly known as Stagger Inn.

Pierre Montigny, on his way to catch a train for Montreal, looked in to tell them all good-bye.

The excuse for the party, it seemed, was the rapidly approaching wedding of Mr. Glenn Thurber and Miss Marjorie Clarken, which was to take place with small ceremony on Monday at the Little Church Around the Corner.

Everybody was there — even Roger Duane, who gratefully declined an invitation to do his Zufa dance, and Price Merriam, who hadn't been liked so well when he was confidential secretary and a gigolo of sorts to Mrs. Violet Elderbank, but who now had been accused of a G-B. Price had sworn he would never look twice again at a woman with diamonds.

There was much vocal uproar, claimed a G-B. Price had sworn he would never look twice again at a woman with diamonds.

There was much vocal uproar, and when Montigny arrived they sang the Marseillaise for him.

"Once more!" shouted Jimmy Kirkman, but some one with a heavier voice switched the tune to the more familiar thunderer:

She had a dark and roving eye
And her hair hung down in ring-lets
A nice girl, a decent girl,
But one of the rakish kind!
An alarm of fire from the rear of the house broke up the singing, but it proved to be only a small flame and much smoke arising from the rear court of Two-Sixty-Eight.

A small figure was tending a diminutive bonfire in the center of the yard.

Glenn Thurber threw up a wind-dow. "Great grief, it's that simp Valcour!" he shouted.

Valcour came closer to the window and stood in a shaft of light while he looked up at the celebrants.

"Don't get excited, ladies and gentlemen," he bade them dramatically. "This time I do not feed a sacrificial flame as a protest against the commercialism that is stifling art. I am merely burning up a lot of rubbish. The police got my masterpiece as evidence, but this is the rest of them. I am saying farewell to art—forever!"

"Cheers!" shouted Jimmy Kirkman. "Yip, yip, yip!"

"On Monday," proclaimed St. Gregory Valcour, "I am going back to work—in the comb and brush factory!"

HOME MAKING HELPS

ONCE MORE builders and manufacturers are thinking in terms of the average citizen who saves and contrives to buy a modest home for his dear ones. And we have just been given a glimpse of a new pre-fabricated home that is surely going to revolutionize home building of the very near future.

In this marvelous house, which comes ready and takes less than two weeks to be put up and ready for occupancy, is an enclosed box-like unit which houses the plumbing, heating, electrical, mechanical and air conditioning devices necessary for running the house.

But we aren't going to bore you with a technical account of this mechanical marvel of this exhibition house. For, like the other women viewing the house, we spent most of our time looking at the furniture and the clever decorations. We were interested because we learned that the whole thing, even including the books in the living room, had been furnished for less than $1,200.

Crank Opens Windows
Just inside the soft and gray outer walls and the blue door opening out onto a little porch is the living room. A small room, only 12 by 16 feet, it is nevertheless spacious in appearance due to the delightful colorings and excellent arrangement of the furnishings. This is in some way due to the case-mint windows which make up a corner, and delight of delights, open with the turning of a crank.

The windows have eggshell cotton net curtains, with draperies of natural harepen linen trimmed with brown fringe, hung straight at either side. The walls are covered in eggshell paper with a faint white pattern. The paper is washable. The furniture, provincial in design, is maple in three finishes—natural, bone-finished maple is upholstered in brown eggshell and yellow striped chenille.

There are two easy chairs, a desk and a provincial dining table with accompanying chairs. On the beau-

BEET WORKERS TALK OF STRIKE

Meanwhile, Canton Steel Mills Clear Up Labor Difficulties

(By Associated Press)
Workmen in two Canton steel mills were returning and the outlook for peace in Canton's bitter labor dispute appeared brighter today.

At the same time a new controversy arose in Ohio. Beet workers in the northwestern Ohio fields met to organize and ask wage increases, asserting that if the pay boosts were not met at least 500 men would strike.

The steel strike took a new turn Saturday when employees of the Stark rolling mill and the United Alloy company, both Republic Steel Corp. subsidiaries, voted 2,732 to 164 in favor of returning to work.

Under the protection of police and deputy sheriffs nine automobile loads of workers entered the alloy plant yesterday.

Whether employees of the Berner Manufacturing company, where the strike originated, would return to work was a question remaining to be answered.

In the sugar beet workers' controversy, 200 employees met at North Baltimore and appointed a committee to apply for a charter from the American Federation of Labor. Martin Studebaker, a member of the committee, said the workers plan to ask growers for a wage scale of $19 per acre, an increase of $3.

CITY HALL PLANS

Editor, The News:
While I recognize the need for a new city hall, and believe the city should take advantage of the opportunity to get nearly half of the cost from a PWA grant it seems to me the city should not accept the estimates of only one architect in preparing its plans.

A much better procedure would be to call in several architects, choosing the best plan from among those submitted. The plans and estimates of one architect may be good, but there should be no rush to accept these without first ascertaining whether better, cheaper and more practical ideas might be presented by others.

"Les Miserables," Victor Hugo's classic, will be shown at the State tonight and tomorrow. The cast includes Fredric March, Charles Laughton, Rochelle Hudson, John Heil, Frances Drake and Cedric Hardwicke.

Fredric March is at his best as the hero, Jean Valjean, the fresh, honest country youth, who stole a loaf of bread because he was starving and for which crime he was ordered to spend five years in the galleys of a French prison.

Charles Laughton and found the remainder of his life shadowed by the law.

As the fanatical detective, Javert, who hounds Valjean from pillar to post, Charles Laughton offers an entirely new characterization and Sir Cedric Hardwicke, the distinguished English star, is very good as the Bishop who makes Valjean's life worth living.

Released from the prison ship an unfeeling beast, Valjean is inspired to a noble and prosperous life by the Bishop's generosity. But because he has broken his parole, he remains a hunted man always.

The love story is provided by Cosette, Valjean's ward, played by Rochelle Hudson, and Marius, a young revolutionary, played by John Heil.

As the picture opens, March is seen for the only time in the film as his smooth-faced self. From then on, as he flees from Laughton, the relentless detective, his disguises

JUST RAMBLINGS: Walter Hagen says the Oakmont course at Pittsburgh, site of the national open this year, is a "duffer" course. . . . In the 500-mile race at Indianapolis last year, Rex Mays, who went so well at the start this year, drove the first eight laps in second gear. In the excitement he forgot to go into high.

Big Bad Baer

WHATEVER your opinion may be of Max Baer as a fighter, you must admit that the man is a natural showman. The forthcoming Baer-Bradlock heavyweight title go does not shape up on paper as any battle of the century, yet the bout will probably draw a large gate just because everybody knows that Duffy Max will put on a colorful show, whether the scrap lasts one round or fifteen.

Why, even the movie battle between Baer and Camera that was staged in Max's picture, "The Prizefighter and the Lady," didn't top the actual fight for sheer drama—and humor. That Primo-Max shambles was one of the most riotous bouts in heavyweight history.

Master Baer did plenty of clowning when he was in there with the bewildered Man Mountain, and he probably plans to cut up a few comic capers at the expense of the slow-thinking Bradlock. James J. says he will clout Sir Maxwell right on the crockery every time his fists starts his clowning tactics. Baer's antics, while colorful and amusing enough, are really ruses which Max uses to gain a much-needed breathing spell, since he is never in particularly marvelous condition. Bradlock's handlers know this, and insist that the Irish veteran will not be disconcerted by Baer's nonchalant posing, but will keep after Max and thus prevent him from loafing through a number of rounds when he gets more or less winded.

Bradlock is certain to be in the very pink of condition, while the screwy titleholder's training maneuvers have never excited the enthusiasm of experts on conditioning.

COLUMBIANA county's baseball leaders today were the Lisbon Hanna Oils and the Laughlin Chinas of East Liverpool.

One of the leaders until Sunday, Lake Placencia fell out of the top berth, when it lost to Salsville, 3 to 5, yesterday. The Salem Merchants came out on the short end of another close battle Sunday, bowing to Kensington, 8-7.

The Lisbon Oils spanked East Palestine 10 to 6 and the Potomac hit the Sebring Grocers soundly, winning 12 to 5.

Tied for second place today were Lake Placencia, Salsville and Kensington.

Stratton's home run in the first inning with one man on and pitcher Johnny Edie's home run with two on in the second were not enough for Lake Placencia and an eighth inning rally by Salsville capped the game.

Beckwith and Carter both got three hits out of five times at bat to lead the Salsville club.

The Salem Merchants, playing a better brand of ball on Sunday, bowed to the visiting Kensington team, when the latter club came through with two decisive runs in the eighth inning. The Merchants failed to overcome this in their last time at bat. Salem was ahead by one run until the eighth.

Scoring consistently, the Hanna Oils of Lisbon, got five runs off six hits, three doubles and three singles in the first inning and kept the Palestine club scoreless until the fourth inning when they pooled three runs off three hits and again in the fourth they crossed the plate with three runs off only one hit.

Bye staged the best fielding play of the game, making a one hand catch of an almost sure hit.

BROWN, GRABER TO MEET SOON

Star Pole Vaulters Will Settle Dispute Yet
This Month

By ALAN GOULD.
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The two young men who have explored more athletic stratosphere than any others, Keith Brown of Yale and William Graber of Southern California, will attempt to settle their spectacular, long-standing rivalry in the all-star invitation track meet at Princeton, June 15.

Both had already welcomed the bid for post-graduate competition in a meet headlined by the Cunningham-Loveck-Sonthorn-Venka mile race, and Brown contributed a dramatic "build-up" to it Saturday at Harvard stadium by clearing the world pole vault record of 14 feet 5 1/2 inches.

The Yale captain's farewell of the college athletic was not only wiped out Graber's intercollegiate A. A. A. mark of 14 feet 4 1/2 inches, made in Philadelphia, but also eclipsed by three-quarters of an inch the world record of 14-4 1/2 set by Graber in the 1932 Olympic try-outs at Pale Alto.

It is conceivable, if conditions are right, that Brown and Graber may celebrate their get-together by taking a shot at the theoretical limit of 15 feet.

Brown helped the east carry off a bare majority of first places, eight out of 15, in the I. C. A. A. A. finals but nothing the "old guard" had to offer otherwise was sufficient to check its rout by Southern California's Trojans in the "battle" for team honors. Dean Cronwell's boys, featuring a half-dozen sophomores, registered two of the four record performances, captured four first places and reeled up 51 points in 11 events.

The seventh Trojan victory marked the 11th straight year that the team trophy has gone west. California was the runner-up, with 27 1/2 points, while little Bates college of Maine came through with 12 points, trailed by only two men, to finish third and top all the eastern teams.

The next Trojan objective is the dual meet at Los Angeles with Ohio State, featuring Jesse Owens, the one man team, on June 15. They will have less chance of beating Owens than any of the Negro sensation's four specialties than they likely will have in capturing the national collegiate A. A. championships a week later, at Berkeley.

None of the performers at Cambridge Saturday came very close to touching Owens' Big Ten title marks. The nearest was Hamilton Hucker of Cornell, who ran the 200-meter low hurdles in 23.2 seconds, setting a new meet record.

George Anderson of California and Foy Draper, diminutive Trojan, the spring winners in 107 and 20.8 for the metric distances, hardly class with the Ohio State flash now. Al Olson's winning broad jump for Southern California was nearly two feet short of Owens' new world record.

Bargains are plentiful. The ads will tell you where.

Cardinals Threaten Giants National League Leadership

The same sort of batting that marked the close of the 1934 National league season is on again with the Cardinals coming up with a tremendous rush to threaten the leadership of the New York Giants.

Only so far the Giants haven't shown any signs of the "crack" that cost them the pennant last September.

Buried in fourth place almost from the start, the Cards tuned up at the end of their eastern tour then opened up the machine to top speed last week to pile up six straight victories and move into second place.

Today they had cut the Giants lead to 3 1/2 games as they won No. 6, 6 to 5, over the Cubs while the New Yorkers came to the end of their seven-game winning string with the 2-0 shutout at the hands of the Braves.

Trailing 5-1 going into the last inning, the Cards pounded their way to victory.

The Cardinals' hitters couldn't fathom the offerings of Bob Smith while the Braves, aroused by Babe Ruth's announcement of his intended retirement, smacked out a run off Clyde Claxton in the sixth and another on Bill Urban's homer in the eighth.

The Phillies kept Brooklyn from moving into the first division by beating the Dodgers 7 to 5 on a three-run ninth-inning rally.

In the American League Detroit bowled over the White Sox 10 to 5 with a 14-hit attack on four pitchers while the Yankees belted six home runs, two by Bill Dickey, and trimmed the Red Sox 7 to 2. The Yankee home run production was the best one-game job of the season and fell just one batter short of tying the major league record.

As a result the Tigers moved into fourth place ahead of Boston while the Yankees increased their lead over Chicago to two games. The pale hose remained only a half game ahead of the Indians, who downed the St. Louis Browns 6 to 2, with the aid of Earl Averill's third homer in two days and one by Hal Trosky.

The Athletics moved up within a game of the sixth-place Senators by beating them 8 to 7 with a ninth-inning run after Washington had tied the count with three runs in the same frame.

Golfers Tramp
Oakmont Course

PITTSBURGH, June 3.—As Gene Sarazen says, it may be "too early to try real hard" but there are plenty of scores in the 70's boasted by the kingly golfers who are trying to lick that "ole debil Oakmont" before the national open starts Thursday.

Among them are the par-equaling 72 turned in by Eddie Loos of Chicago, to lead yesterday's practicing shot-makers and the par-cracking 70 chalked up over the weekend by Roland McKennie, the powerful hitter from Washington.

Most of the notables who stand a chance for top place in the big event took to the traps and bunkers again this morning and the rest of them are due during the day, including Sid Brews, the South African pro who has just annexed the Philadelphia P. G. A. invitation title.

Sarazen, twice a winner of the open, was good for a 76 on his Sunday practice round, but he spent most of the day trying his hand at putting.

Kelly Pettillo, 31-year-old Californian fruit dealer, started by driving his father's truck and now reigns as the speediest driver ever to flash down the Indianapolis Speedway, averaging 106.24 mph. to win the 500-mile classic. Always dreaming of winning, he spent his time and money on his car which he built himself.

Bambino Quits Braves After Dispute With Fuchs Over Profits

Home-Run Slugging Ruth Parts With Boston Club,
Claiming Braves' President Double-Crossed Him

By BILL KING, Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON, June 3.—Babe Ruth and the Boston Braves have parted. Baseball's mighty slugger was made a free agent yesterday, soon after he announced he was quitting the National league team because of a dispute with Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves.

"I can't get along with Fuchs," the home-run slugging Babe explained as he sang the swan song for one of the most glamorous of baseball's careers.

"I will never play another game for the Boston Braves, although I have the highest regard for my Boston teammates and their manager, Bill McKennie, one of the finest figures the game has ever produced. Fuchs double-crossed me and I will not play for the club as long as he remains in control."

Shortly after the Babe announced his voluntary retirement, Fuchs announced that he had given him his unconditional release.

It is likely that the resignation of Ruth, hailed as the financial salvation of the financially-harassed Braves, will cause an upheaval in the club's upstairs office.

The incident may hasten the passage of complete control of the Braves into the hands of Charles F. Adams, owner of two Boston professional hockey clubs, guiding genius of the $1,500,000 Suffolk Downs horse racing track in East Boston and controlling stockholder of the National league baseball club here.

Ever since the season started, reports have raced through the major leagues that the once-mighty Babe had guessed wrong when he signed the double contract that tied him up with the Braves as a player and as second vice president of the club.

The two contracts guaranteed him $5,000 as a player, $5,000 more as a club official and a percentage of the gate receipts, both for the spring training season, which broke all the Braves' financial records, and the regular campaign, the most profitable in the club's history.

Argue Spring Profits
Some time ago, it became known in baseball circles that Babe became irritated because he had been denied a share of the club's record-setting training season profits. This disagreement, it is understood, caused the breach between him and Fuchs.

But Ruth cited a different reason for quitting baseball. He said he decided to go on the voluntary retired list when Fuchs refused him permission to go to New York to participate in the ceremonies in honor of the French liner Normandie's arrival.

"I called Fuchs Saturday night," the Babe said, "and I told him I was going to New York to attend the ceremonies held in honor of the Normandie's arrival. Fuchs demanded that I report in uniform for Tuesday's game."

"My knee, which I injured in Cincinnati, will not permit me to play until Thursday, at least. I see no reason why Fuchs should deny me permission to go to New York. I have all the money I need and I will not stand for such treatment."

"I am going to New York today. From then on my plans are indefinite. I don't want to give up baseball but I will never play for the Braves again. Fuchs should know as Fuchs remains as head of the club. He double-crossed me."

Groan and Grunt Artists Victors
In Bouts, Yet Lose by New Scoring

(By International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 29.—You win and yet you lose!

What a system! It ain't right! No justice! A wrestler can win five bouts and yet get tossed out on points! Who invented it anyway?

These were some of the comments heard here from a group of disgruntled fighters following the international Y. M. C. A. championship wrestling matches.

It was the first tourney at which the new Olympic scoring was employed—and it will be the last—if the officials have anything to say about it. But in probabilities they won't have the say.

Here's the way the system works: A wrestler starts out with a clean slate. If he is thrown by a decision or defeated by a decision, three points are chalked up against him. If he wins by a decision, he gets one point. Five points and you are out.

Thus it can easily be seen that a man could win five decisions and still be eliminated.

At the "Y" tourney on three or four occasions wrestlers won their bouts but were tossed into the waste basket just the same. In one instance a wrestler was eliminated while the beaten man remained in the running.

So what? Only this, says George Pinneo, veteran wrestling coach, who tutored the 1920 and 1928 Olympic teams:

"The idea was originated by the European nations. The idea was to beat the United States by any means or another. They are out to beat us and this is the first step. We've got to make the best of it. That scoring system is all wrong and we're trying to get rid of it."

General

Boston—Babe Ruth announces he will ask for voluntary retirement. Judge Fuchs of Braves gives him unconditional release.

JUST RAMBLINGS: Walter Hagen says the Oakmont course at Pittsburgh, site of the national open this year, is a "duffer" course.

In the 500-mile race at Indianapolis last year, Rex Mays, who went so well at the start this year, drove the first eight laps in second gear. In the excitement he forgot to go into high.

Big Bad Baer

WHATEVER your opinion may be of Max Baer as a fighter, you must admit that the man is a natural showman. The forthcoming Baer-Bradock heavyweight title go does not shape up on paper as any "battle of the century," yet the bout will probably draw a large gate just because everybody knows that Daffy Max will put on a colorful show, whether the scrap lasts one round or fifteen.

Why, even the movie battle between Baer and Carnera that was staged in Max's picture, "The Prizefighter and the Lady," didn't top the actual fight for sheer drama—and humor. That Primo-Max shambles was one of the most riotous bouts in heavyweight history.

Master Baer did plenty of clowning when he was in there with the bewildered Man Mountain, and he probably paid out up a few comic corners at the expense of the slow-thinking Bradock. James J. says he will cut Sir Maxwell right on the crockery every time His Nibs starts his clowning tactics.

Baer's antics, while colorful and amusing enough, are really ruses which Max uses to gain a much-needed breathing spell, since he is never in particularly marvelous condition. Bradock's handlers know this, and insist that the Irish irver-an will not be disconcerted by Baer's nonchalant posing, but will keep after Max and thus prevent him from loafing through a number of rounds when he gets more or less winded.

Bradock is certain to be in the very pink of condition, while the screwy titleholder's training maneuvers have never excited the enthusiasm of experts on conditioning.

East Liverpool And Lisbon Hanna Oils Lead County League

Both Lake Placencia and Salem Merchants Emerge On Losing End of Baseball Games On Sunday

Columbiana County League
Lisbon	5	1	.833
East Liverpool	5	1	.833
Lake Placencia	4	2	.667
Kensington	4	2	.667
Sebring	4	2	.667
East Palestine	0	6	.000
Salem	0	6	.000

COLUMBIANA county's baseball leaders today were the Lisbon Hanna Oils and the Laughlin Chinas of East Liverpool.

One of the leaders until Sunday, Lake Placencia fell out of the top berth, when it lost to Salineville, 8 to 5, yesterday. The Salem Merchants came out on the short end of another close battle Sunday, bowing to Kensington, 8-7.

The Lisbon Oils spanked East Palestine 10 to 6 and the Pottery hit the Sebring Grocers soundly, winning 12 to 5.

Tied for second place today were Lake Placencia, Salineville and Kensington.

Stratton's home run in the first inning with one man on and Pitcher Johnny Ellis' home run with two on in the second were not enough for Lake Placencia and an eighth inning rally by Salineville capped the game.

Beckwith and Carter both got three hits out of five times at bat to lead the Salineville club.

The Salem Merchants, playing a better brand of ball on Sunday, bowed to the visiting Kensington team, when the latter club came through with two decisive runs in the eighth inning. The Merchants failed to overcome this in their last time at bat. Salem was ahead by one run until the eighth.

Scoring consistently, the Hanna Oils of Lisbon, got five runs off six hits, three doubles and three singles in the first inning and kept the Palestine club scoreless until the fourth inning when they pooled three runs off three hits and again in the fourth they crossed the plate with three runs off only one hit.

Bye staged the best fielding play of the game, making a one hand catch of an almost sure hit.

J. Hrovatic and Price were the hitting stars of the afternoon, getting three apiece and accounting for seven of the runs between them. Hrovatic also scored a run when running for Price in the eighth.

Scoring four in the first inning, three more in the sixth and eighth and one in both the fifth and seventh, the Laughlin Chinas beat the Mitchell Grocers of Sebring, 12-5, in a game played on the Newell field.

Score by innings: 400 013 130—12 East Liverpool. 000 200 030—5 Sebring.

On Wednesday evening, at Centennial park, Lake Placencia will face the Salem Merchants in a game which should bring out the fans in this section. The game is scheduled for 5:30 p. m.

BROWN, GRABER TO MEET SOON

Star Pole Vaulters Will Settle Dispute Yet This Month

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The two young men who have explored more athletic spheres than any others, Keith Brown of Yale and William Graber of Southern California, will attempt to settle their spectacular, long-standing rivalry in the all-star invitation track meet at Princeton, June 15.

Both had already welcomed the bid for post-graduate competition in a meet headlined by the Cunningham-Lovelock-Bentzen-Venzke mile race, and Brown contributed a dramatic "build-up" for it Saturday at Harvard stadium by clearing the world pole vault record of 14 feet 5 1/2 inches.

Wipes Out Records
The Yale captain's farewell of the college athletic was not only wiped out Graber's intercollegiate A. A. A. mark of 14 feet 4 1/2 inch, made in Philadelphia, but also eclipsed by three-quarters of an inch the world record of 14-4 1/2 set by Graber in the 1932 Olympic try-outs at Palo Alto.

It is conceivable, if conditions are right, that Brown and Graber may celebrate their get-together by taking a shot at the theoretical limit of 15 feet.

Brown helped the east carry off a bare majority of first places, eight out of 15, in the I. C. A. A. A. finals but nothing the "old guard" had to offer otherwise was sufficient to check its rout by Southern California. Trojans in the "battle" for team honors. Dean Cromwell's boys, featuring a half-dozen sophomores, registered two of the four record performances, captured four first places and reeled up 51 points in 11 events.

West Holds Trophy
The seventh Trojan victory marked the 11th straight year that the team trophy has gone west. California was the runner-up, with 27 1/2 points, while little Bates, college of Maine came through with 12 points, trailed by only two men, to finish third and top all the eastern teams.

The next Trojan objective is the dual meet at Los Angeles with Ohio State, featuring Jesse Owens, the one man team, on June 15. They will have less chance of beating Owens in any of the Negro sensation's four specialties than they likely will have in capturing the national collegiate A. A. championships a week later, at Berkeley.

None of the performers at Cambridge Saturday came very close to touching Owens' Big Ten title marks. The nearest was Hamilton Hucker of Cornell, who ran the 200-meter low hurdles in 22.2 seconds, setting a new meet record.

George Anderson of California and Foy Draper, diminutive Trojan, the spring winners in 107 and 20.8 for the metric distances, hardly class with the Ohio State flash now. Al Olson's winning broad jump for Southern California was nearly two feet short of Owens' new world record.

Cardinals Threaten Giants National League Leadership

The same sort of batting that marked the close of the 1934 National league season is on again with the Cardinals coming up with a tremendous rush to threaten the leadership of the New York Giants.

Only so far the Giants haven't shown any signs of the "crack" that cost them the pennant last September.

Buried in fourth place almost from the start, the Cards tuned up at the end of their eastern tour then opened up the machine to top speed last week to pile up six straight victories and move into second place.

Today they had cut the Giants lead to 3 1/2 games as they won No. 6, 6 to 5, over the Cubs while the New Yorkers came to the end of their seven-game winning string with the 2-0 shutout at the hands of the Braves.

Trailing 5-1 going into the last inning the Cards pounded their former teammates, Tex Carlton, out to score one run and leave the corners crumpled when Larry French took the hill Jimmy Collins belted French's second pitch for a homer and when Chicago threatened in the last half of the inning Dizzy Dean came in to save the game by disposing of two pinch hitters.

The Cubs, beaten in 13 of their last 21 games, sank into a virtual tie with Brooklyn, holding forth by one percentage point and trailing Pittsburgh by two games after the Pirates whitewashed Cincinnati 8 to 0 on Jim Weaver's five-hit fling.

Smith On Mound
The Giants' hitters couldn't fathom the offerings of Bob Smith while the Braves, aroused by Babe Ruth's announcement of his intended retirement, smacked out a run off Clyde Claxton in the eighth. The Phillies kept Brooklyn from moving into the first division by beating the Dodgers 7 to 5 on a three-run ninth-inning rally.

In the American League Detroit bowed over the White Sox 10 to 5 with a 14-hit attack on four pitchers while the Yanks belted six home runs, two by Bill Dickey, and trimmed the Red Sox 7 to 2. The Yankee home run production was the best one-game job of the season and fell just one homer short of tying the major league record.

As a result the Tigers moved into fourth place ahead of Boston while the Yanks increased their lead over Chicago to two games. The pale hose remained only a half game ahead of the Indians, who downed the St. Louis Browns 6 to 2, with the aid of Earl Averill's third homer in two days and one by Hal Trosky.

The Athletics moved up within a game of the sixth-place Senators by beating them 8 to 2, with a ninth-inning run after Washington had tied the count with three runs in the same frame.

Golfers Tramp Oakmont Course
PITTSBURGH, June 3.—As Gene Sarazen says, it may be "too early to try real hard" but there are plenty of scores in the 70's boasted by the kingly golfers who are trying to lick that "ole debbil Oakmont" before the national open starts Thursday.

Among them are the par-equaling 72 turned in by Eddie Loos of Chicago, to lead yesterday's practicing shot-makers and the par-cracking 70 chalked up over the weekend by Roland McKenzie, the powerful hitter from Washington.

Most of the notables who stand a chance for top place in the big event are on the traps and bunkers again this morning and the rest of them are due during the day, including Sid Brews, the South African pro who has just annexed the Philadelphia P. G. A. invitation title.

Sarazen, twice a winner of the open, was good for a 76 on his Sunday practice round, but he spent most of the day trying his hand at putting.

Kelly Pettillo, 31-year-old Californian fruit dealer, started by driving his father's truck and now reigns as the speediest driver ever to flash down the Indianapolis Speedway, averaging 106.24 mph. to win the 500-mile classic. A ways dreaming of winning, he spent his time and money on his car which he built himself.

Bambino Quits Braves After Dispute With Fuchs Over Profits

Home-Run Slugging Ruth Parts With Boston Club, Claiming Braves' President Double-Crossed Him

By BILL KING, Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON, June 3.—Babe Ruth and the Boston Braves have parted. Baseball's mighty slugger was made a free agent yesterday, soon after he announced he was quitting the National league team because of a dispute with Judge Emil Fuchs, president of the Braves.

"I can't get along with Fuchs," the home-run slugging Babe explained as he sang the swan song for one of the most glamorous of baseball's careers.

"I will never play another game for the Boston Braves, although I have the highest regard for my Boston teammates and their manager, Bill McKee, one of the finest figures the game has ever produced. Fuchs double-crossed me and I will not play for the club as long as he remains in control."

Shortly after the Babe announced his voluntary retirement, Fuchs announced that he had given him his unconditional release.

It is likely that the resignation of Ruth, hailed as the financial salvation of the financially-harassed Braves, will cause an upheaval in the club's upstairs office.

The incident may hasten the passage of complete control of the Braves into the hands of Charles F. Adams, owner of two Boston professional hockey clubs, guiding genius of the $1,500,000 Suffolk Downs horse racing track in East Boston and controlling stockholder of the National league baseball club here.

Ever since the season started, reports have raced through the major leagues that the once-mighty Babe had guessed wrong when he signed the double contract that tied him up with the Braves as a player and as second vice president of the club.

The two contracts guaranteed him $25,000 as a player, $5,000 more as a club official and a percentage of the gate receipts, both for the spring training season, which broke all the Braves' financial records, and the regular campaign, the most profitable in the club's history.

Argue Spring Profits
Some time ago, it became known in baseball circles that the Babe became irritated because he had been denied a share of the club's record-setting training season profits. This disagreement, it is understood, caused the breach between him and Fuchs.

But Ruth cited a different reason for quitting baseball. He said he decided to go on the voluntary retired list when Fuchs refused him permission to go to New York to participate in the ceremonies in honor of the French liner Normandie's arrival.

"I called Fuchs Saturday night," the Babe said, "and I told him I was going to New York to attend the ceremonies held in honor of the Normandie's arrival. Fuchs demanded that I report in uniform for Tuesday's game."

"My knee, which I injured in Cincinnati, will not permit me to play until Thursday, at least. I see no reason why Fuchs should deny me permission to go to New York. I have all the money I need and I will not stand for such treatment."

"I am going to New York today. From then on my plans are indefinite. I don't want to give up baseball but I will never play another game for the Braves as long as Fuchs remains as head of the club. He double-crossed me."

Groan and Grunt Artists Victors In Bouts, Yet Lose by New Scoring

(By International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 29.—You win and yet you lose!

What a system! It ain't right! No justice! A wrestler can win five bouts and yet get tossed out on points! Who invented it anyway?

These were some of the comments heard here from a group of disgruntled grunters following the international Y. M. C. A. championship wrestling matches.

It was the first tourney at which the new Olympic scoring was employed—and it will be the last—if the officials have anything to say about it. But in probabilities they won't have the say.

Here's the way the system works: A wrestler starts out with a clean slate. If he is thrown by a decision or defeated by a decision, three points are chalked up against him. If he wins by a decision, he gets one point. Five points and you are out.

Thus it can easily be seen that a man could win five decisions and still be eliminated.

At the "Y" tourney on three or four occasions wrestlers won their bouts but were tossed into the waste basket just the same. In one instance a wrestler was eliminated

BUREAUCRACY IS HIT BY HOOVER

Lashes Government Action Limiting Opportunity to Produce

"There are some who really need that sheltered life and should have it. But that sort of people did not make Iowa or make America."

"Our forebears who settled this state inherited little from their forebears but a covered wagon, the soil, their character, their religion, self-government and the freedoms enumerated in the bills of rights," he declared.

"These God-fearing people built this state under freedom, not under a political bureaucracy that coded their daily actions, limited the products of their factories and their farms, that told them they could not start a new enterprise. They fought the enemies of freedom from both the right and the left."

"Necessary emergency measures of war or depression," and "the necessity of stronger foundations of social growth" were not included in his discussion, the former president emphasized.

Asserting "I am going to try to give you a little encouragement and to remark on something to look out for," Hoover compared Iowa farm life today with conditions during the first ten years of his life spent on a Cedar county farm: "The farm was a place of constant new wonders. New manufacturing processes were disclosed with every changing season and a small boy was needed as part of the directing staff of all of them," he said.

"The codes had not yet arrived and his hours of the day were designed to give food, sleep, chores, school and recreation."

Nobody Sat up Worrying

"If there was a depression or a business cycle either present, or coming or going, nobody told us, so that nobody sat up nights with the radio worrying about that."

Price changes in Chicago or Liverpool affected only twenty percent of the farm income, the speaker declared, "and therefore social justice was only imperiled a small bit."

"The index number of relative industrial and farm prices and the ration of corn and hog prices did not come over the radio every day to give us anxieties about the whole 100 per cent of our standard of living," Hoover asserted.

"That economic system avoided strikes, lockouts, industrial clash, class conflicts, labor boards, arbitration," he said.

"Your special education and your opportunities must bring you and the state of Iowa something more than increased economic efficiency. It should bring you the art of happy living and the joy of cooperation with your fellows outside your economic job."

"It imposes upon you a responsibility to the community to take service in the common interests."

and application. They look over the demands of body and mind, and say, 'It is not worth it.' Some refuse to give the time required to properly lay the foundations of a life work. They demand that promptness be followed in their rewards."

"It truly follows that the stony sower of the good seed of life will come to a light harvest. They have put very little out and they are going to get very little out of it. They have evaded the hard work of the sowing time and their harvests will not demand much output of labor to bring in their small returns."

Sow Plentifully

"Second, there is the abundant sowing. 'It is not wise to economize in the matter of sowing. Thrift and economy are wise and profitable principles of life. They should not be used in seed-time. Nature is very prolific in her sowing. Millions of eggs are produced by the mother fish. Many small plants produce multitudes of tiny seeds. So the life of the world is carried on.'"

"The abundant sower has upon his face the look of hope. He plants the seed never to see it again, but it will bring forth a harvest. Bountiful sowing will mean a bountiful harvest. Life will never return more than you put into it. Harvests come from plentiful sowing."

grabbed as he was walking home from school at noon May 24.

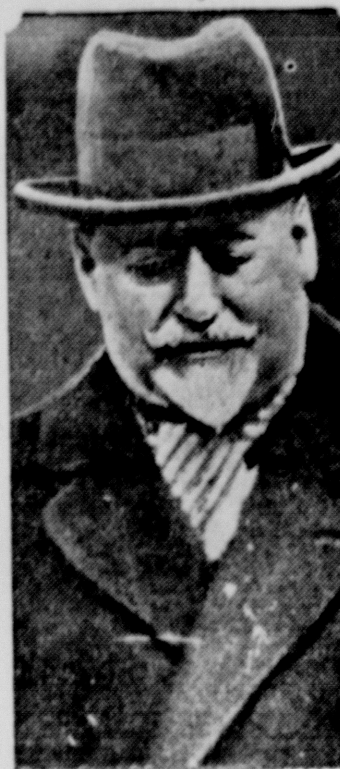

As soon as George was safe at home, the federal agents went into action. The kidnappers, meanwhile, had vanished. Highway traps were set. One, in Northeastern Oregon, promised results, but came to nothing. A suspected automobile speeded through Great Falls, Mont., last night and was immediately pursued.

Wires hummed with descriptions given by the nine-year-old victim of the three masked men who held him prisoner for eight days. He had said they called each other Allen, Harry, and Bill. Authorities immediately associated these names with Alvin Karpis—Allen and Alvin having a similar sound—notorious gang leader and reputed brains of the Bremer kidnaping, and two of his lieutenants, William Weaver and Harry Campbell.

Large Still Seized 'By Sheriff and Aids

LISBON June 3.—Arraigned before Justice of Peace M. K. Zimmerman here late Saturday, Charles Wright, operator of a 150-acre farm seven miles east of here, pleaded not guilty to the illegal manufacture of liquor for sale. Hearing was set for early this week, and bond was placed at $1,000.

Sheriff Frank Ballantine and deputies reported they confiscated a county truck load of equipment in a barn on the farm, located at the intersection of the East Liverpool-Youngstown and Elkton-Lisbon roads. They also stated they found a large quantity of mash buried beneath the ground near the barn.

Sheriff Ballantine said they discovered three 50-gallon tanks for boiling mash, 26 five-gallon tin containers, a large copper coil, a large boiler and a gallon of liquor.

He was assisted in the raid by Deputy Sheriffs George E. Hayes, Paul Early and Roy Lewton.

Wright had lived on the farm, owned by J. H. Ward, since March 15, when he moved from East Liverpool.

Earned Income Tax Vote Will Be Asked

The Ohio Association for Tax Reduction is circulating petitions in Columbiana and Mahoning counties for the submission of an earned income tax proposal and two other constitutional amendments, to the voters on November 5.

W. E. Jackson of Ravenna is directing the circulation of initiative petitions in the rural sections of Columbiana and Mahoning counties. A total of 2400 signatures are required in Columbiana, 6341 in Mahoning and 229,000 in the entire state.

The proposed amendments provide for an earned income tax of five mills and removal of all real estate and personal property tax, which includes the sales tax. The second amendment calls for issuance of license tags for automobiles for one dollar for the life of the car. This, it is pointed out, will allow everyone to drive their car and pay road costs through the gas tax.

The third amendment is a license on all stores and places of business. They are to be taxed in proportion to the number of places of business operated by any person, firm, corporation or co-partnership.
